Interviews were transcribed and coded by two raters working independently, and disagreements were settled by discussion.